Capt. Clay Wounded.

Capt. Chas. D. Clay, 17th U. S. Infantry, who married Miss Pepper, of this city, was slightly wounded in the neck during one of the battles near Manila last week.

Capt. Clay was leading his men on a gallant charge, when he was struck. As good luck would have it, the course of the ball was such as to miss the vital points, and, while the wound is painful, it is hoped that he will be out again in a few days.

Col. Harry E. Egbert Killed.

During the battles around Malaban, in the Philippines, Col. Harry E. Egbert, of the 20th U. S. Regulars, was killed, leading his men in a bayonet charge. Col. Egbert was wounded while leading his old regiment, the 8th Regulars, at San Juan Hill, at Santiago, and had not entirely recovered from his wound when he was ordered to join his new regiment in the Philippines. His career had been one of marked courage and ability, having been appointed a Lieutenant by President Lincoln, and having served through the civil war and ever since in the regular army. He was a Brigadier General of Volunteers when killed.

Union Finance and Investment Company

Mr. Geo. T. Hardin, of the Union Finance and Investment Company of Louisville, Ky., was in the city this week on a business trip. Mr. Hardin reported good business.

This concern is one of the most reliable in the country, having for its President Chas. R. Long, of the Louisville Water Co., and Wm. I. Ingram, Secretary and Treasurer.

Maj. D. W. Sanders, the well known attorney, is also a heavy stockholder as well as attorney for the company.

Mr. Hardin left Thursday for Louisville.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by himself as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and side, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at J. W. Gayle's drug store.

Lightning's Work.

The lightning, which accompanied the storm of Monday night, was very sharp and brilliant. During its prevalence a large cottonwood tree standing at the mouth of Todd's branch, at Lake Park, West Frankfort, was struck by the fluid and split and skinned up pretty thoroughly. We believe this is the first time a cottonwood has been struck by lightning in this region, as far as we are aware.

Heavy Fighting.

The American forces had two heavy fights with the Philippines on Saturday and Sunday, driving them every where they could be struck. The loss of life among the Philippines was very heavy, while that of our forces was light, considering the numbers engaged and the situation, the enemy being in strong entrenchments and with the advantage of a thorough knowledge of the country.

Unusual.

The frequency of violent thunder storms this season, and so early in the season, will cause this year to be long remembered for that kind of electrical display.

Editor Roundabout:

I was delightfully entertained by a reading given by Prof. C. M. Arnold, at Excelsior Institute, last Friday night. The large room was well filled with intelligent careful listeners, and, I am glad to say, all went away feeling they had spent a pleasant hour with this gifted instructor.

The exercises abounded in wit and humor—occasionally sandwiched with a literary gem. Maude Muller was rendered in a most impressive manner, while Mark Twain's Literary Nightmare was a real "side-splitter."

Prof. Arnold is thoroughly realistic before an audience. He is free from artificiality, but graceful in gesture. Many years of his life have been given to his favorite calling. He is a hard student; studies his subjects well, and, when he comes before an audience, he is as Dewey before the Spanish Navy.

The Professor is now teaching a class at the University in Lexington, Ky. His home is at Eminence, Ky. He can be addressed at either of the above places.

Jett, Ky., March 28th, 1899.

[For the Roundabout.]

A Vow And a Curse.

I vowed in my heart that we should not meet—

The Spirit of Love and I—

For I knew her ways

And her tender plays,

And I knew the print of her fair feet,

And the breath of her faintest sigh.

So I shunned her groves and her castles fair,

With a purpose grim and set,

'Till I felt secure,

And a trust mature

Was born in my breast that I knew her snare.

And the lay of her hidden net.

I held no commune with her Vestal train—

The maidens of lovely mood—

For I closed my eye

As they passed me by,

And I bound my heart with an iron chain,

'Till it moaned like the god of old.

Thus the years went by, but my lot was lone,

I spoke and she dropped her head,

And I saw her part

With a warm, young heart,

And I caught it tight with a stifled groan,

For my own lay shriveled and dead.

I met friend Observer on Main street, in Jacksonville, a few days since, and I hardly knew him as freezing and peeling off has made such an improvement in him. Pulliam Saturday and Sunday.

A magnificent fiddling soiree was a joyous event at W. Bain Sudduth's last Thursday night. The belles and the beaux enjoyed themselves
bucally.

Mrs. Sallie Chisholm and son,
B. B., were the guests of Mrs. Fanny Mitchell Saturday last.

There was a musicale at Mr. Warren Pulliam's Saturday. The music was grand. Among those present were Misses Lila Pulliam, Annie and Mattie Allison, Katie Sudduth and Mittie Mitchell. Among the gents were Jas. Whitman, Beke Parris, Colubus Chisholm, Manly Chisholm,
Morrie Allison, Leslie Sudduth,
Chas. Warren, Floyd Phillips
and Early Moore.

In passing up Benson one cannot fail to observe the handsome improvements that the papa of the Lily of the Valley is making in his mansion, and it is now being painted in the daintiest colors under the supervision of the Lily herself. Now won't the old gal shine when she gets it all complete.

Now isn't it cheery for that young gossamer of doose Creek to arrogate to herself the honor of being "Sweetest of Sweet?" Well I do declare.

Prisoner Escapes.

Louis Burgess, a white convict,
sent up from Jefferson county for murder, escaped from the prison
warehouse on Tuesday afternoon last. He was employed on the second floor and cut through the beak wall and lowered himself to the ground and thus escaped.

Warden Lillard has offered a reward of $100 for his capture and return to the prison.

The attendance for the past month is not as high as it should be, but is an improvement over the three previous months, and with the advent of better weather, should materially increase.

Beginning next Monday, April 3d,
the first bell will ring at eight o'clock,
at which time pupils are admitted to the buildings for the day's work.
Parents should not allow their children to congregate on the street cor-

is toward disorder. The co-operation of the home in this particular is very necessary and desirable.

Famous FASTER.

Dr. H. S. Tanner, the celebrated fasting physician, was in the city on Thursday and made us a pleasant call. It will be remembered that, as a test, Dr. Tanner fasted, in 1877, for 42 days at Minneapolis, Minn., and afterwards, under the supervision of a committee, fasted, in New York City, for forty days.

In reply to a question as to why he fasted Dr. Tanner stated that he had heart disease until his physicians had told him that he was liable to die at any moment.

He determined to try the efficacy of fasting as a remedy. At the end of eleven days his heart's action had so improved that he could lie down for a short while, a thing he had not done for a long time.

He and his physician had an argument that day as to the matter,
and, the physician, being a material-alist, contended that the facts mentioned in the Bible were all fakes.
So Dr. Tanner resolved to test the matter and fasted forty-two days.
Afterwards physicians generally denied that it was a real fast and asserted that it was a fake.

In defense of his reputation he agreed to make the test under the watchful eyes of a committee of physicians and newspaper men. The result is known to the world.

The Doctor is a hale and hearty gentleman of 67 years of age, and was in the city to recommend the
"No-to-bac" and "Candy Cascarats."
He left for Georgetown that afternoon.

Docket of the April Term.

We have received a copy of the docket of the Court of Appeals for Commonwealth cases; 27 appearance and continued cases; 2 cases on argument and 122 cases heretofore passed for oral argument.

Is Baby Too Thin?

If so, there must be some trouble with its food. Well babies are plump; only the sick are thin. Are you sure the food is all right? Children can't help but grow;
they must grow if their food nourishes them. Perhaps a mistake was made in the past and as a result the digestion is weakened. If that is so, don't give the baby
a lot of medicine, just use your every-day common sense and help nature a little, and the way to do it is to add half a teaspoonful of

SCOTT'S EMULSION

to the baby's food three or four times a day. The gain will begin the very first day you give it. It seems to correct the digestion and gets the baby started right again. If the baby is nursing but does not thrive, then the mother should take the emulsion. It will have a good effect both upon the mother and child. Twen-five years proves this fact.

G. O. A. LEWIS, Editor and Pub.

FRANKFORT, APRIL 1, 1899.

Kicks Generally.

There is a certain paper in Louisville that is trying to "catch 'em a comin'" and a "gwine." Some time since, when the Court of Appeals rendered a decision, by a divided court, that private corporations were subject to a franchise tax as well as public concerns, and had to make reports to the Auditor and pay the tax the editor raised a terrible howl about that decision destroying all private business enterprises and stated that it would set Louisville, especially, and Kentucky, generally, way back in the race for prosperity and growth.

Now comes this same editor, when the personnel of the court has been changed, and when the court, in its wisdom, saw that it had made a mistake in its former opinion, and withdrew it, taking the ground that the aforesaid editor said formerly was the common sense and business sense view, and held that private corporations did not enjoy any exclusive and special privileges, the editor at once proceeds to change front and denounces the court as a set of weaklings, and asserts that they did not know "nary a law."

It is a marvel how much law and general knowledge a jack leg politician can acquire in his career as a general spy upon the character and conduct of the upper "four dozen" of Louisville.

It is a wonder one small head can hold all that the aforesaid knows.

But, nevertheless, he is determined to be a kicker generally, no matter which way the legal cat jumps.

Prominent Man Dead.

By a dispatch from Cincinnati, of date March 26, we learn that Mr. Harry B. Morehead, son of the late Gov. James T. Morehead, and well known here, died in that city on Sunday.

Mr. Morehead commenced to learn the printing business in the old Commonwealth office, when Col. A. G. Hodges was public printer.

Concluding that his forte was something of a more lucrative nature, he returned to the home of his mother in Cincinnati and went into the banking house of Espy, Heidelberg & Co., of which his brother was cashier. Afterwards he became a broker and financier on his own account.

He was very successful and amassed a considerable fortune. He was President of the Commercial-Gazette Co. for several years. Recently he had spent most of his time in New York City and London in connection with railroad interests in which he was an investor.

He was married but left no children. He was a jolly, good fellow and was popular here and in Cincinnati, where he passed the most of his life.

Bad Accident.

Mr. James Dirken, who married Miss Mary Nickle, the oldest sister of Mr. B. J. Nickle, was seriously hurt by being caught in the machinery of Bridgeford & Co.'s stove works, in Louisville, whereby his right arm was horribly mashed and a long gash cut in his shoulder. He was so severely hurt that his arm was amputated on Saturday. Grave fears as to the result are felt by his relatives in this city.

Before the discovery of One Minute Cough Cure, ministers were greatly disturbed by coughing congregations. No excuse for it now. Tyler & Hemphill and W. McKee Hardie.

Elkhorn.

Old Elkhorn is a beautiful place. It marks back to a very old date.

Old citizens move out and new ones move in.

Our town is not of monstrous size, but has many beautiful sights.

The million, which cost thousands of dollars to build. Its beauty is in comparison with Niagara Falls. The two streams, North and South Elkhorn, which meet at the covered bridge. This very bridge where Marian Gray left her glove and handkerchief one dismal day. She was running away from Red Stone Hall, which was on South Elkhorn creek.

Now comes Steadman Park, of very recent date, which goes to prove the increase of our place.

Then the ruins of the old Mucklin Mill, which was built just over the Conpton Hill. It was destroyed by fire some eight years ago, of which fact we all well know.

Then the cave, which is said to extend to Steadman town. Within this wonderful cave many curious and wicked things are said to exist, such as wild men, snakes, panthers and fish. But none have been killed or caught. But one thing is sure, you can often hear noises and sounds of a very queer kind, as if the inmates were having a wonderful feast.

And this must be true, as just after you hear these mysterious sounds, if you will enter or just peep round you will see a table of rock, with cards and dice scattered about. That they were at mischief we can not doubt. But we are glad to state that this is the only place within our beautiful little town that wickedness is said to be profound.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"It soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the universe." So will every one who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Our Frank.

Georgetown College, of Georgetown, Ky., has secured the services of Frank Barrett, the Princeton third baseman, to coach the candidates for the baseball team for several weeks this spring. Barrett played third on the Princeton team during the past two years, and was looked upon as one of the best men in his position on any of the big Eastern college teams. He was graduated last June and is now at his home in Franklin.

Georgetown expects to put an unusually strong team in the field this year, and with Barrett as coach hopes to make a strong bid for the State College championship. The new coach will probably take charge of the candidates next week.

We take the above from the Evening Post, of March 22. Mr. Barrett is an excellent all around base ballist and will make a number one coach.

An Appeal to Our Noble Women.

We suggest to the noble women of Kentucky that they start an endless chain of letters in all directions asking for subscriptions of $1, the money so contributed to be used in erecting a new State Capital Building at Frankfort. The present State House is a sight to behold and there is urgent need of its being supplanted by a modern structure worthy of the people of Kentucky.

The above very appropriate suggestion comes from Capt. David A. Murphy, who was managing editor of the Danville (Ky.) Tribune from 1880 to 1886. Capt. Murphy was superintendent of the erection of our custom house, and is well acquainted with the situation. His suggestion is well worth considering in connection with the petitions now being circulated by our ladies throughout the State, and to which reference is made.

Anthony Hope's New Romance.

Anthony Hope's new romance, which he has just finished, is called "The Countess Emilia," and has been purchased by the Ladies Home Journal, in which periodical it will immediately begin. The story is about a beautiful Countess. She has quarreled with her husband, and they have decided to live in seclusion in separate wings of the castle. This they do until Captain Dieppe, who becomes a member of the household, inadvertently opens a door, through which are revealed to him the apartments of the exiled Countess, with the beautiful occupant standing in a doorway. The Captain falls in love with the young woman, and from this point there is not a moment's cessation in the romantic adventures which ensue in the castle, its gardens and neighboring places of rendezvous.

As the season of the year when pneumonia, la grippe, sore throat, coughs, colds, catarrh, bronchitis and lung troubles are to be guarded against, nothing "is a fine suit to e." will "answer the purpose." or is "just as good" as One Minute Cough Cure. This is the one infallible remedy for all lung trouble or bronchial troubles. Insist vigorously upon having it if "something else" is offered you. Tyler & Hemphill and W. McKee Hardie.

The East's New Religious Figure.

The policy of the Ladies' Home Journal, in its religious department, seems to be always to engage the pen of the man most immediately prominent in the eyes of the religious world. Thus it has had the services of Mr. Beecher, Doctor Talmage, Doctor Parkhurst, Jan MacLaren, and now it will have those of Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, the new pastor of Plymouth Church, in Brooklyn. Doctor Hillis has given the Journal a series of articles upon which he had been working for over a year previous to his Eastern call, and the first of these articles will be published in the next issue of the magazine. The series is all connected in thought, and presents the general subject of "The Secrets of a Happy Life."

J. Sheer, Scialoja, Mo., conductor on electric street car line, writes that his little daughter was very low with croup, and her life was saved after all physicians had failed, only by using one medicine, Cough Cure. Tyler & Hemphill and W. McKee Hardie.

DYSPEPSIA CURED! AMERICAN DYSPEPSIA TABLETS.

A Safe, Sure and Permanent Cure for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach, Flatulency, Palpitation, Fermentation, Heart Burn and Constipation.

Read the following reasons for using American Dyspepsia Tablets.

All other remedies claiming to cure indigestion and dyspepsia contain PEPsin in one of its forms, and as long as PEPsin is supplied to a weak, or even healthy stomach in the shape of medicine, nature will cease to make it, and the DYSPEPSIA will not be able to do without his "DOSE," and of course never be cured of his trouble. A stomach that will promptly digest food must make its own PEPsin and not rely upon medicine for this most important agent.

American Dyspepsia Tablets contain no PEPsin nor other PEPtic agents, but are composed of four old and well-known vegetable remedies which, in combination, will soon effect a cure by restoring the stomach to its normal condition.

We furnish no book on the "STOMACH and its DISEASES," no ALMANAC, no prize for the LARGEST number of wrappers, but will send a trial box to any address free of cost.

AMERICAN DYSPEPSIA TABLETS are put up in 50c. packages, and are to be had at J. W. Gayle's and W. H. Averitt's, or by addressing

Another Cuba Letter.

We have been permitted to publish the following letter from Dr. Len H. Hughes, who is a contract surgeon with the army in Cuba, which was written to his father, Mr. Jas. W. Hughes, in this city. It will well repay a perusal:

Cienfuegos, March 22, 1899.

My Dear Pa:
I thought I would write you a few lines, all to yourself, and tell you a little about the part of Cuba that I think will interest you more than the others, that is, the farming, &c. I spent the day last Saturday at "Horinguera," a "small" sugar plantation containing four thousand acres. What do you think of that for a farm? The place is owned by Mr. Pompey, an American. He lives in Philadelphia during the summer and his farm extends along the railroad for five miles. The immense sugar mill and his winter residence are about in the center of his farm, and he has a small narrow-gauge railroad of his own that runs around over his plantation. He owns the little station, and he also has a little street railway that runs from the station out about half a mile to his residence and sugar mill. I went out with Capt. Lunoke (the depot quartermaster here) and his wife and sister, and Capt. Fenton, the depot commissary officers. Capt. Lunoke telephoned to him Friday night that we were coming out the next day, so he had everything prepared to give us a warm welcome. I never enjoyed a day so much in my life, and I would like to farm if I could do it as he does. We left here at 7:30 a. m. and arrived at Horinguera at 8. Senor Pompey met us at the station with one of his little mule cars and took us out to his house. He has a lovely wife and two sons, and it is quite a little town around his mill and residence.

After we had rested he took us through the mill and we saw them grinding the cane, cooking the juice, separating the sugar from the molasses, and every process up to where the raw sugar is put into sacks for shipment. He only makes the raw brown sugar and he sells it in that stage to the refineries in the United States, and they finish it up into the different grades of sugar that you buy in the stores.

We finished looking at the mill, gardens, &c., near the house by about 11 o'clock, and then we had breakfast. You know they only have two meals a day here. Every one gets up early and takes a cup of coffee, then they do all their work while it is cool. Then they have breakfast at 11 or 12 o'clock, then go to sleep or rest until about 4 o'clock, when they get up and have a cup of tea, then they have dinner (at 6 o'clock).

After breakfast we rested awhile and then he ordered one of his little railroad engines and an open air car, something like a summer street car, and we all got in and rode all over his immense plantation. Sugar is his principal crop, but besides he raises a good deal of tobacco, some corn, potatoes, &c., and a great deal of fruit of all kinds. He has about 30 acres in bananas, and also an orange grove of about 25 or 30 acres. Besides this any number of coconut, lemon, lime, grape fruit, pomegranate trees, &c., growing around all over his place. He has four or five hundred tenants on the place—some of them work in the mill and on the plantation, and the others raise tobacco, potatoes, &c., on the shares. From the way he talks I guess his tobacco tenants are about as worthless as yours are sometimes. He jumped on a fellow Saturday because he went to town to a celebration and the worms nearly ate his crop up.

The tobacco here is much smaller than ours, and it has a small almost round leaf. They set out their tobacco in November or December, and then cut four crops off it by May 1st, when the rainy season commences.

All crops are raised here during the winter season. Everything stops work when the rainy season comes, as it is impossible to do any cultivating from about the middle of May to October. The gathering season for fruits, &c., is just about this time of year; that is during March, April and May. Every thing rots during the summer months.

When tobacco gets pretty well grown they go over it and cut the biggest plants. They keep this up, and by the time the whole patch has been gone over the first plants cut have grown up again; then they commence over again, and so on until the wet season commences. As a general rule each plant can be cut four times, although in extra good ground a fifth crop will grow up before the wet season commences. They cultivate tobacco just as we do, only they haven't as good implements. The worms are the regular pest of the tobacco here, and are more destructive probably, as Senor Pompey said if you let them get a start they can eat up a whole crop in one night. It made me feel at home when I went to his tobacco patch and saw a lot of men and boys picking off worms and suckers.

They cut their tobacco differently from us, and they handle it more carefully. A good sized plant will have about ten or twelve leaves on it, others will make about three cuts, cutting the stem into about four pieces, with two or three leaves on a piece. They never split the stalk and they never haul the tobacco while it is green. They don't have any sticks, but they carry the pieces in their hands and hang them on a scaffold made of long poles. It cures up in a very short time out of doors. Then they haul it in and strip it. It is nearly always in case early in the morning, as the nights are so damp.

The sugar cane only has to be planted about once every twenty years, unless it happens to catch on fire, when it is generally spoiled. The late war played havoc with the cane fields, as both the Spaniards and insurgents burned them whenever they got a chance. The cane is cut every year, and it grows right up again from the old roots, but the crop generally runs out in about sixteen to twenty-four years.

Sweet potatoes grow wild on the island, but they are much larger if cultivated a little. You never have to plant them but once and then the question is how to get rid of them, if you wish to plant anything else on the same ground. The poor people live principally on sweet potatoes.

Senor Pompey's plantation is laid off with his residence, mill, &c., in the center, and then four or five lines of railroad running out like the spokes to a wheel so the cane can be brought in from any point on the farm. He has five small locomotives and lots of cars. This farm was outside the "trocha," or entrenchments surrounding Cienfuegos, hence it had to be guarded during the war. Senor Pompey built a number of block houses and he kept 200 Spanish soldiers and 250 "Guard Civil," of private militia, to guard his plantation, all at his own expense. Now he flies a big U. S. flag over his sugar mill, and is red hot in favor of having Cuba annexed to the U. S.

I send you one or two pictures taken on this plantation. I will send you some more when they are finished. I would give anything if I could see this beautiful plantation. It is one of the prettiest and largest on the island. He has an electric light plant and an ice plant on the place. So it is just like a little world all in itself. He said the whole thing as it stood, land, houses, machinery and everything represented an investment of about half a million dollars. This is one of the prettiest plantations on the island but is not quite the largest. The largest plantation on the island, I suppose, is "Solidad." It is on the coast, about twenty miles from here, and is owned by Mr. Atkins, an Englishman. "Caracas" is another large one, near here, so you see this is about the finest farming district in Cuba.

Well I guess I have given you a small idea of "Horinguera" (pronounced Horinguera), and that is a type of most of the best sugar plantations. Although there are many smaller ones and a few larger ones, they could not be prettier or better managed. Senor Pompey and his family come to Cuba every year about the 1st of October or November, when the mill starts, and they stay here until about May or June, when the mill closes for the summer, and they go to Philadelphia and spend the summer. I am out of paper, so must close, with the hope that you will enjoy this brief description of Horinguera. With love to all I am as ever,
Your loving son,
LEN.

P. S. I forgot to say that the whole porch and side of Senor Pompey's residence is covered with immense Marschal Niel and American Beauty rose bushes. They are now in full bloom in the open air, and are perfectly beautiful. These roses, in the States you know, sell for about $5 to $7 a dozen, and they only grow in green houses. Here they grow wild out of doors all the year round.

Grim Grip's Deadly March

Deals Death and Destruction to Many Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Louisville Terrorized by the Awful Scourge. All the Great Centers of Population Affected.

The depressing effects of the present epidemic of Grip are apparent everywhere. Teachers, clerks, business men; mechanics, laborers, street car drivers, school children, police officers and even the doctors all furnish victims by the hundreds. No remedy yet discovered can show results equal to Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve. It quickly overcomes the excessive exhaustion, invigorates the appetite and assists nature to throw off the deadly microbes from the system. In times of epidemic like the present it should be taken as a preventive of disease.

"Grip had left me a physical wreck weak, helpless and miserable. I could not eat; could not sleep; could not gain any strength, and had nervous prostration of the worst kind. Our household physician could not help me and I commenced using Dr. Miles' Nerve. The first night's sleep that I had in four months came as the result of two first doses. When I had taken two bottles I felt better than I had before in years and continued to improve until I was entirely cured."

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The closing address of the "Loyalty" series will be given by Rev. Geo. Darsie, who will speak on the theme, "Loyalty to Conscience," in the Association rooms. Sunday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock. Come in, young men, and enjoy good singing and hear an enthusiastic address that will interest you.

It is hoped that the members and friends of the Association will show their appreciation of the noble efforts of the Ladies' Committee, by attending the "Poster Show," which is to be given in the Opera House next Monday evening, April 3rd. The ladies have been very busy during the past two weeks arranging a novel and interesting program which cannot fail to please those who patronize the entertainment.

The meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last Sunday has been characterized by many of the regular attendants at the Sunday rally, as the grandest gathering of the past year. More than one hundred men, young and old, were present and listened with rapt attention to the eloquent address on a theme of great importance given by Dr. J. A. Stucky, of Lexington. Taking Joseph as an example, the speaker made a convincing appeal for a higher type of manhood, which must have left a deep and lasting impression upon the minds and hearts of all present. The musical program, including a violin selection played by Mr. L. Harris, and a vocal solo by Mr. J. M. VanDerveer, was greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Capital of Philippines Taken.

The American army, under Gen.
McArthur, captured the Philippine capital, Malolos, yesterday morning with but slight resistance, the Philippines having set fire to the city and skeedaddled.

Men put in the best years of their lives in the pursuit of riches. One class works with the head, and the other with the muscles. Each cares more for dollars than for health. The brain is taxed to the utmost

ing and exciting schemes, and the body is worn out with
time a man stops to take account of things,
he finds the dollars have come, but health has departed. Then he reverses matters completely. He devotes the rest of his life to spending his dollars to regain his health.
What a man with worn-out body and tired brain needs most of all is a good stomach. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the proper remedy to set the stomach right. This medicine will make his appetite good, make his weak stomach strong and help it to digest the food he puts into it. Good digestion makes pure blood, and pure blood utilizes the whole system.
This great remedy also cures those who have sore throat, a persistent cough, weak and bleeding lungs and bronchitis, all of which often arise from weak stomach and consequent indigestion. It is a cleansing, strengthening, purifying, invigorating alterative tonic. It puts life into the blood and nerves, into the brain and body. It cures every form of indigestion, makes the sleep sound, and nerves steady. There is nothing so good, and you should refuse all substitutes offered by dealers.

"I had caught for four years and also liver and kidney trouble," writes John A. Calloway, Reg. of New Orleans, La., "when it would commence troubling me, I could have a slight aching a little below the chest. In the night it would jump all over and when these left the skin peeled off. I took six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery two bottles of his 'Pleasant Pellets,' and I believe I am sound and well. I have a good appetite; before I commenced treatment I had no appetite at all."

Y. M. C. A.'s Appeal.

The local Y. M. C. A. has been in operation three years, and as the accounts of the past year will be closed in a few days, the following statement regarding the present financial condition and outlook will doubtless prove of interest to the citizens of Frankfort.

Thus far sufficient funds have been secured, from memberships, subscriptions and entertainments, to meet the current expenses of the past twelve months and reduce the indebtedness to the extent of two hundred dollars, still leaving $1,150 of the debt, which had been carried over from the second year. Toward the material reduction of this remaining indebtedness, the members themselves have pledged $300 in special subscriptions, and the Ladies Committee will devote the proceeds of the "Poster Show" to the same end. While this condition is gratifying as compared with the outlook
at the beginning of the fiscal year,
yet the Directors feel that the future
good of the Association demands that the present debt be reduced to six hundred dollars, or less, if possible; and to this end they earnestly hope that those friends of the work, who appreciate its value but have not contributed towards its support
this year will rally to the assistance of the management at this time. If every business man and young man in Frankfort not now patronizing the Association would help to the extent of a membership the entire debt could be wiped out. Let it be "a long pull, a strong pull and a pull altogether," and the greatly desired result will be achieved.

Letter From Cuba.

3d Ky. INF'Y, U. S. V., MATANZAS, CUBA,
March 22, 1899.

Editor Roundabout:

The chief topic of conversation among the Kentuckians here is in regard to our returning to the States and being mustered out. After we have gotten home and had a rest, a number may re-enlist with either the new volunteers or the regulars, but at present there is a pretty general desire to go home. We expect to leave Cuba soon, but do not know exactly when. We have been in the service long enough now to know something of the uncertainty of military movements.

The 12th New York Vol. Inf'y left this morning and the 160th Indiana Vol. Inf'y, our twin sister, is expected to leave soon. After they have gotten away perhaps there will be a chance for us. The 160th Indiana and the 3d Kentucky have been together now for a long time, both having gone to Newport News from Chickamauga about the last of July and never having been entirely separated for any length of time since.

Only two battalions of our regiment are at Matanzas, the second and third, the first being at La Union, a small place about thirty-five miles distant. The second was at Cardenas and returned to Matanzas the 2d of March. We are camped right by Matanzas bay, in about as rough a place as one would fling troops would be camped. It is an extremely rocky place, but, since we have gotten roads built and paths made, we can get around pretty well. Our row of headquarters tents is situated on a terrace, and from here you can get a fine view. In front of us is most of our camp, and a little further out is the bay, and a beautiful body of water. It is possibly a mile or a mile and a half wide and about five miles long. There are usually from one to five steamers in the harbor besides sailing vessels.

We were brought here on the transport Minnewaska, and so eager are the boys to go home that when a vessel is sighted coming in the harbor it is common for some one to start the cry "here comes the Minnewaska," and, if it happens to be a vessel of the Minnewaska's size and description, considerable interest is taken in the new comer until we ascertain that she is or is not the Minnewaska. We do not know that we are to return on this vessel, however.

U. S. Transports have red, white and blue painted on the smoke stacks and this gives some hope, even though they anchor so far out that we can't read the names.

The weather, taken as a whole, since we have been here, has been delightful, it being about like our summers. One great comfort is the fine breeze we enjoy a great deal of the time.

One thing that would interest your readers, could they see it, is the means of transportation in use by the natives. Their horses, as a rule, are small, some of them quite small, but they are capable of carrying good sized burdens.

Instead of dairy wagons they use large pack saddles on their little horses or donkeys and put the milk cans in these and the driver rides on top of the saddle, which makes him quite a distance above the animal's back. I have seen six or seven horses going along the road, the hindmost one hitched to the tail of the one in front of him, and so on, with the attendant riding the front horse.

They have very few, if any wagons, but have cabs for passengers. As a rule you do not see more than one horse attached to a native vehicle. The only four mule teams we see here are those belonging to Uncle Sam.

They do heavy hauling on drays, to which they work oxen. The dray has a tongue and the oxen are hitched to this by means of a yoke attached to their heads and not their necks, as in our country.

In walking along the streets, in the principal part of the city, it is common to see the family carriage sitting in the hall. I haven't seen yet where they keep the horses, but have been told that there is one place here where you can't see any way to get the horse out except by bringing him through the parlor.

There are a number of nice houses here, the court being one of the principal features of their construction. Marble is used extensively in building. One of the barber shops has solid marble bath tubs. Most of the streets and sidewalks are very narrow.

The fortifications here do not amount to much, Fort San Severino being the principal one. It is in slight camp. Further out toward the ocean, on this side of the bay, were two sand batteries. At the further one is where the mule is said to have been killed during the battle between the fortifications and part of Sampson's blockading fleet.

I have visited one small fort on the other side, which does not offer much protection against large guns. I don't know whether there are more nearer the ocean on that side or not.

Havana has fortifications all around it. I was told when there. I visited only two of these, La Punta and Morro Castle. In a battery, outside the walls of Morro, there are three guns which might be called modern but they are not disappearing.

There is some right nice country between here and Havana. Of course the scenery is different from that in Kentucky, but I don't know that I have seen any prettier here than we can find close to home. That here is so much of a sameness. Most of the trees that I have seen are palms and all look alike. They have no foliage except right at the top, and the trunks are long and slender, at the bottom and top, with the center larger. They remind me of a large feather duster.

Col. Smith, Gen. Wilbur R. Smith, of the Lexington Business College, who was here, and I went together. We stopped at the Hotel Washington, where several from the regiment had stopped. We had two rooms. One was a front room and was quite nice, being furnished much like bed rooms in Kentucky. The floor was made of marble or tiling of some kind. We got there in time for dinner on Friday, and stayed until after dinner Saturday, and paid $2.50 each, which I did not think was very high. Havana is a very large city and has some very large stores. I don't know that I have seen any thing in the States that surpassed them.

I think there are some street car lines there, but we did most of our riding in cabs. You can take a cab ride, either one or two persons, for "one peseta," Spanish money, which is worth about 16 1/2 cts. in our money.

I got into Morro Castle, a privilege which a number of our officers did not get to enjoy while there. It is a massive structure and Americans might have had some trouble taking it, unless they could have dropped shells inside of it.

I went to the cemetery while there.

They have some very fine monuments, but a large number of graves are marked with what seemed to be wooden crosses. They have a house there in which they keep bodies in a shallow box, and put lime on them until the flesh decomposes. I saw two in one box while I was there. I presume they were the bodies of the poor people that they do this way.

As a rule the regiment is not anxious to be mustered out in Kentucky. After we get in the States, the further away from home we are the more money the men will get. I don't know whether this will make much difference with the officers or not, but an enlisted man will get a day's pay for every twenty miles he has to travel.

We have to get up mustering-out papers. One of the staff officers was out to-day giving instructions. It will be quite a job. I am glad I am not a Captain of a company. When a man has any unusual history, such as leaves of absence, detached service, fines, etc., it must appear on the muster-out roll, with the dates, orders, etc.

Somebody will have some fun writing mine up, as I have been detailed or detached so many times.

I may have to go down to La Union for a few days while Dr. Adkins goes to Havana.

There are comparatively few guns mounted on the walls of Morro now. It was not occupied by American troops at the time of my visit, but was being put in better hygienic condition.

The majority of the Frankfort boys are feeling well.

Hoping to be in my native city soon, I am,

Very respectfully yours,
NEVIL M. GARRETT,
